The 2017 FABI year-end gala dinner and awards ceremony marked 20 years since the founding of the Institute and an historic turning point in its future. FABI staff, students and invited guests swapped their lab coats for evening wear to celebrate another year of research excellence and accomplishments. The event was attended by Vice-Principal for Research and Postgraduate Education at the University of Pretoria, Professor Stephanie Burton; Dean in the Faculty of Natural and Agricultural Sciences, Prof Jean Lubuma; Director: Facilities Management at UP Prof Susan Adendorff as well as representatives from the forestry sector, other FABI stakeholders and members of the FABI team and their guests.

Former Vice-Chancellor of the University of the Free State, who had previously served as the Dean of the Faculty of Education at UP, Prof Jonathan Jansen was guest speaker for the night. He spoke of the responsibility of universities in the current social and political climate, as generators of new knowledge and, importantly, as institutions where openness, freedom of expression and the unflinching search for the truth are encouraged and practised. He commended FABI for these characteristics, which in its history have set it apart as a centre of excellence in its field.

Prof Lubuma announced that Prof Bernard Slippers would assume leadership of FABI from 1 January as founder Director Prof Mike Wingfield will step down from this position after 20 years at the helm. FABIans recalled their fondest memories of Prof Wingfield in a video screened on the night. FABIans also bid farewell to Dr Bridget Crampton, who will leave FABI to join the UK Forestry Commission at the end of the year.
