The Forest Molecular Genetics (FMG) Programme focuses on the genetic control of growth and development in fast-growing plantation trees with a view to enhance biomass production and improve wood properties for timber, pulp, paper, and biomaterials production. We also aim to understand molecular disease resistance mechanisms in trees for woody biomass protection. We are affiliated with the Forestry and Agricultural Biotechnology Institute (FABI), and the Genomics Research Institute (GRI) at UP. We work in close collaboration with South African forestry companies through the FMG Consortium (FMGC) to develop capacity and resources for the application of tree biotechnology in tree improvement programmes.
